Two campus political parties will

as the Men's Students Council approved the petitions of James Stephenson, Sigma Chi, and Robert Stiltz, Pi Kappa Alpha, and completed plans for the election which will be conducted in a new fashion
on Tuesday Nov. 9.

of the newly organized Progressive Party, will be supported for the min-

ta Chi, vice-presidential candidate;

Combine as candidates for other offices are Rankin Terry, Indepen-

Unlike elections held in previous years, the Men's Student Council announced that this year's contests will be conducted by placing voting booths at six designated areas on the campus, one for each college.
It was further explained that members of each college will be allowed to vote only at the headquarters of their respective schools. In addition, a different time was set for the voting in each zone.

QUEEN ELECTION DECLARED VOID

Charles Barrett, Chancellor
Of Alpha Zeta, Sponsors
Of Fall Festival Queen,
Calls Off Election

Election of Ruth Hicks as queen of the fall festival, held Thursday morning at the Agriculture college convocation, was declared void
Thursday afternoon by Charles Barrett, chancellor of Alpha Zeta, organization that sponsored the election.

Barrett said that the election was called off because at the time of the election "nomination of candidates was not complete." Candidates were nominated from the floor at the convocation and voting by secret ballot was held immediately.

A statement issued by Barrett
yesterday afternoon follows: "Nominations for queen of the fall festival will be continued until four o'- clock Friday afternoon, November
5. Any male student in the College of Agriculture desiring to nominate a candidate may make this nomination in the office of the dean in the Agriculture building.
Election will be held next week."

Prichard, Bebe Chauvet, and D'Ann
and Tippy Calhoun, is to be staged

Held in the cast in the five central roles are: Martha Kelly, as college widow; Jane Freeman, as Jean; and J. B. Faulconer, as Dean-

y. The locale of the play is a college campus, the action involving three acts and twelve musical numbers.

At the Tuesday meeting the ennounced, and a brief reading of the

Kentucky And South Carolina, Grid Strangers, Square Off In Intersectional Clash Tomorrow; Kittens To Grapple With Vol Rats In Knoxville

Moseley Leads Yearlings Into Mysterious Tennessee
Cradle For Annual
Frosh Classic

1936'S TUSSELE WON BY BABY VOLUNTEERS, 12-0

On Second Thought, Moseley
Is Disgusted With Showing
Against Morehead

By MARVIN GAY
Highly confident of victory as a result of their 80 to 6 annihilation of Morehead College's Eaglets, the Kentucky Kittens will play their third and final contest of the 1937 season when they meet the Tennessee Rats on Shield-Watkins field, Knoxville, Saturday afternoon.

These annual Kitten-Rat combats
are always hotly contested, and Saturday's battle promises to be another stirring affair right down to the final whistle. Last fall the "Baby Vols" took the Kittens into camp, 12 to 0, during a tough dingdong clash on Stoll field.

Little is known of the strength of the Tennessee gridgers. Coach Frank Moseley's yearlings have shown steady improvement as they fell before Vanderbilt's "greenies" 12 to 0, only to bounce back and all but exterminate Morehead's hapless eleven. This same Morehead team held Centre College's first year men
to a three touchdown margin.

Despite the 12 touchdowns
chucked up by his crew, Coach Moseley, to put it mildly, was plainly disgusted with the showing made by his outfit.

The frosh mentor seemed to feel that his lads did practically no blocking, and that the score should have been about 150 to 0. (Coaches,
we think, are naturally pessimistic.
This is Coach Moseley's first year
as head frosh mentor, but already he has been converted from a born optimist into a perpetual pessimist.)

Personnel of the travelling squad which will consist of two tams, has not been selected according to Coach Moseley. Those players who have stood out during this week's practices will be chosen for the Knoxville jaunt.

The Kentuckians are in fine condition with the exception of two men, Gholson and Jacobs, who were injured in the Morehead fracas.
The probable starting Kitten lineup, will consist of the following men:

Ends: Scott and Riggs or Martin-tackles, Huddleston and Johnson or Bertzen; guards, Fannon and Willoughby; center, French; Quarterback, Hamond; halfbacks, Zaeller and Jones; fullback, Ishmael.

Band Preps New Tricks For Game

With a brand-new bag of tricks
up its sleeve, the University's "Best Band in Dixie" will again drill and maneuver, play and sing, for the benefit of the spectators at the encounter Saturday.

Leading off with a "YEA, KY",
"YEA, SC", spelled out simultaneously on opposite sides of the field,
the bandmen will reunite in front of the Carolina stands to form a large "SC".

A novelty number, "Comin' Round the Mountain", featuring various chapters by the bandmen will be followed by a four-part vocal arrangement of "Bells of St. Mary", featuring the bell-lyre, played by Frank Goodfriend.

In view of the fact that the burlesques put on by the band have proved so popular with the "customers", sometime during Saturday's performance another skill will be presented for their benefit.

Beginning next week, the band will make a series of educational pictures on band maneuvers and drills, for the extension department.
These films will be shown in high schools throughout the state as a regular part of the educational work of the extension department.

"240" Group Hears McVey At Meeting

Dr. Frank L. McVey presided and spoke at the first meeting of the Committee of 240, which was held at 7:30 o'clock last night in the faculty club rooms of McVey hall.
Mrs. McVey also spoke.

The Committee of 240 is an organization consisting of two members from each county in the state and also including faculty representatives.

Brazilian Pianist Launches Local Melodic Programs

Guimar Novaes Opens 1937-8
Community Concert Series
In Henry Clay High
This Evening

Guimar Novaes, eminent Brazilian pianist, will open the 1937-38
Community Concert Series at 8:15 o'clock this evening when she appears at the Henry Clay high school auditorium.

Under the auspices of the Central Kentucky Community Concert Association, a series of five concerts for this season has been arranged by the New York office. On November 12, the Jones European Ballet will be presented; Kathryn Meisle, contralto, will be heard January 11; the Barre-Britt "Concetta" will appear February 11;
and on February 25, John Charles Thomas, baritone, will conclude the series.

Miss Novaes in music has often been compared with Willa Cather in literature. It is said that there is probably no pianist now before the public who is more genuinely liked than this brilliant artist.

In New York, where Miss Novaes made her sensational debut, a critic of the New York Times stated: "Not every generation hears a Guimar Novaes." Her subsequent annual tours of the United States and Canada have firmly established her as one of the superlative pianistic talents of our time.

Columbia's Prof. S. Sturtevant Reveals Inroads
To Leadership

Stressing the necessity for paying attention to what the world wants
as well as what you yourself want, Miss Sarah Sturtevant, professor of education and head of the department of student personnel at Columbia university, spoke upon "Opportunities for Leadership in Education" at the convocation for women students held Thursday afternoon in Memorial hall. Miss Sturtevant told of the preparations necessary in the field of personnel
work and of the various vocations
open to women graduates.

"If you can get skill and experience so that you will be good in a certain field, you are sure to have an opportunity for a position," said Miss Sturtevant. "In personnel work, people must be studied. Besides just knowing people, study them scientifically, study their emotional makeup, physical makeup, and interests. Take professional life seriously from the beginning," she added.

Frances Sadler, president of the association of women's students, presented the girls' glee club, under the direction of Miss Mildred Lewis,
which sang "O Peaceful Night,"
"The Rain" and "The Last Song."

The other guests at the meeting introduced by Miss Sarah G. Blanding, were Miss Hilda Threkhald, dean of women at Louisville, Miss Anna Bell Schoonmaker, dean of girls at Henry Clay high school,

COMPLETE CAMPUS COVERAGE

Take That Sweater Off, Freshman!

Of all the evidences of the lack of school spirit at the University, none is more disloyal than a student's wearing his high school athletic emblem while here on the campus or in the streets downtown. Though one of the primary collegiate rules outlaws the display of an initial foreigner to a particular institution, nevertheless too many of our egotistical students flagrantly defy this axiom of respect.

If a man wins his letter in high school for football or tap dancing, there is nothing to prevent him from donning the textile type as long as he remains within the scope of his high school. However, to attend the University, and persist in exhibiting his secondary school achievement, is a blow on the face of common propriety.

There are but three Kentucky insignia awarded at this school. A student who has earned the freshman numerals or major and minor "K" was deemed by the University as one fit to expose sartorially his worth. These numerical and alphabetic medals are the only figures permitted to be worn at our school. The displaying of any other emblem invites the suspicion of treason.

There is enough open spurning of the University's merits without churlish showing that one won one's letter at Goopville high school. If one needs a sweater for warmth, then at least he should turn it inside out. If one can get along without it, send it to little brother. Leave high schoolism back home. If the student wants to wear a letter let him come out for one of the University's teams and earn a "K."

Techniques In Teaching

Extensive discussion during the past six months of whether or not particular subject matters would assume their rightful place in the University if President Hutchins' views gained majority sanction has obscured one of the real educational problems which is indicated by implication, if not explicitly, in the President's analysis.

Judging not only from his citing study of the classics as the proper content of college education but from his past practice in teaching the classics in collaboration with Associate Professor Adler, any extensive introduction of the President's plan of general education would mean radical departments from the present scheme of lecture, discussion, and comprehensive examination.

Using as his point of departure the maxim that no teacher can teach the student what he cannot learn for himself, for six years Hutchins has conducted his "Classics of the Western World" class by a question-and-answer method which is so impartial that the student is frequently at the end of the year in complete ignorance of Hutchins' own position. Punctuating questions with remarks like "Come clean, Mr. X" or "Act your age, Miss Y," the President has occasionally pushed students to knowledge through the gentle art of leading questions; he never uses the more obvious bludgeon of lectures.

What are the advantages of the question-and-answer technique? Of outstanding significance is replacement of emphasis on memorization by emphasis on understanding. A "Classics of the Western World" student may not remember for examination purposes that according to Aristotle a tragedy "is an imitation of an action" etc. However, he will understand what "an imitation of an action" signifies. Of almost equal benefit is the consequence that education is made active in a sense which most students never realize until they enter graduate seminars. Memorization, although not emphasized, becomes easier because what the student is forced to say in his own words he retains. Further he is pushed to an exactitude of oral expression which at first leaves him resentful and later leaves him educated.—Chicago Daily Maroon.

Scrap Irony

By HARRY WILLIAMS

It happened in the English department the other day. The class had been getting along rather well and the professor was quizzing it on the capitalization of proper nouns. He asked, "If the word Harlem is used in a sentence, should it be capitalized?" A simple question requiring a simple answer. Well, he got it. Mr. Thomas A. Gherman, a freshman in the College of Commerce, rose from his seat near the rear of the room and said, "Yeah man!"

What occasions the gaps in languages, I wonder? Why cannot one say, "Locked out" in French? And why have the French never managed words for "Seventy," "Eighty," and "Ninety"? Why when an American can say, "Eighteen ninety-seven," and be done with it, must the Frenchman say, "One thousand, eight hundred four-twenties ten-seven"?

SIMILE OF THE WEEK:

She was as unbalanced as a Bailey headline.

We get into all sorts of pithy little discussions in our "History of Kentucky" class. Yesterday the debate waxed rather warm between representatives of the Bluegrass and those of Western Kentucky and Mr. William Worth (Dem. Bluegrass) had the floor. He flayed the Western part of the state and lauded the Bluegrass with an eloquence surpassing even that of Mark Anthony. He pointed out the fact that "untold wealth" was concentrated here. He sounded convincing enough and had the class pretty well on his side until Mr. Granville Clark (Rep. Western Ky.) remarked that the only thing the Bluegrass had that Western Kentucky didn't was, "A lot of useless traditions." Mr. Clark was, of course, cheered to the echo.

The trouble with golf is that a man can't complain if his wife buys a new hat just as often as he buys a dozen balls.

Everything had been going along smoothly and we were beginning to think nothing else would come up to annoy us when, like a bolt from the blue, came Bulletin No. 371 from the Agricultural Experiment Station with some startling news concerning the chick embryo. It seems that:

"All the embryos from the eggs of Lot 1 that were not injected showed chondrodystrophy whereas all the 10-21 day embryos and the chicks from eggs laid by the same hens during the same period but injected with .03 mgs. of manganese per egg showed normal skeletal development. All the embryos from eggs of this lot injected with zinc showed chondrodystrophy."

(Rather a shame, isn't it?)

Professor Niel Plummer, juggernaut of journalism, has suggested that we have a woman columnist on THE KERNEL. Of course, we have one, but he means an editorial columnist. Now if there be any girl on the campus who thinks herself a potential Dorothy Dix, we should be delighted to relinquish this space to her for a trial column.

We attended the opening of "First Lady" the other evening and we were impressed by the amount of sneezing that took place. It seems that people with colds no longer go to hospitals; they go to theaters. We managed to hear a few of the lines though, and the play was excellent.

The psychology department may be large and it may have all the students it can handle over there, but we can find no explanation of the fact that a freshman went to lecture for six weeks without discovering that there was a laboratory to be attended once a week. And one did it, mind you, six weeks!

Since the last running of the Kentucky Derby, when this column picked Billionaire to win by three lengths, we have been rather reserved about making predictions, but today we shall break a precedent. It certainly looks as if the Pershing Rifle sponsor will be an Independent—Miss Babe Combs. However, Miss Jimmie Sanders, Kappa Delta, seems to be doing her best to make it two in a row for her sorority.

DICTIONARY FOR INEBRIATES:

Fizz—Type of hat worn by Asiatics
Whiskey—A facial growth
Goblet—A young sailor
Hennessey—The state where Memphis is located Sherry—What Washington chopped down
Set-ups—Morning exercises
Absinthe—Cutting class.

"An appendix is a portion of a book which no body yet has discovered to be of any use." "Gender shows whether a man is masculine, feminine, or neuter." "A grass widow is the wife of a vegetarian."

SIDESHOW

By DON IRVINE

WHEN the weather is extremely hot or extremely cold one can always behold on the open space before the portals of the Administration building files of brown-clad individuals marching first one way and then another, to the tune of totally unintelligible cries from people not in line. This is the University R. O. T. C. unit rehearsing its chorus numbers. All male students are required to tramp down the sod in this manner for the first two years of their college careers. By those who like it, it is called Military Science.

Students acquire much useful knowledge in military science. One thing they learn is the military language. The basic principle of this odd tongue is the mispronunciation of common words; thus "march" become "HARCH"; "discipline" become "disCIPLINE" in some cases, and so on. Thus college gentlemen not already proficient at it can also glean from the officers a graceful synonym for blasphemy.

They also learn how to stand. At first there is a great tangle of limbs at certain commands, but after a few months this is smoothed out and positions arrived at more fluently. The art of standing at attention, for instance, is a difficult one. By a series of muscular miracles one is supposed to thrust one's chest to the front, one's posterior to the rear, plant the rifle butt beside, and not on, the toe; and locate side-seats with the left thumb. This is to be done in approximately one second. Another stance acquired in military science is one ironically known as "stand at ease." To achieve the desire to pose, it is necessary to enact a number of physically phenomenal movements which eventually deposit one arm in the small of the back (fingers half closed); chest out; chin to the clouds; feet wide apart; the other arm extended forward supporting the rifle, which in this movement angles to the front like a broken constable. This delightful statuesque pose, so completely easy for the soldier, is only one of many splendid methods of standing that are taught the eager student.

In the second year of R. O. T. C. training the kiddies are taught one of the most fascinating and entertaining subjects in the military roster: how to kill a man with a gun. Students learn not only which end of the gun to hold, but which end of the man to hit. Of course the distance between the weapon and the victim is an important matter in this case, but all details are taken care of. Specific directions are supplied for hitting a man at any interval from six inches to six hundred yards. Naturally, such a thing would not be legal except in battle, but think what jolly fun one could have then!

Thus, on the University of Kentucky campus, the seekers after culture are taught the rules of a game which at this moment is meeting out its death for thousands in China and Spain. So far as can be positively stated we are to have but one life. It may not be too pleasant at all times, but still it is difficult not to prefer it to death. The majority of the students on the campus are at that period known as "war age," and would be among the first to be entered into conflict. At this time in the vigor and optimism of youth, they cannot appreciate the full meaning of death in battle. They see their friends alive, walking, talking, and laughing, and cannot comprehend so sudden a finish for them. Nevertheless the possibility of such an end is on the boom. Somewhere even now munition makers are manipulating to move thousands of healthy, happy rolling boys into the blasts of machine gun bullets. Should they succeed, those voices accustomed to laughter and song shall be distorted into hoarse shrieks of unbearable agony. Boys in the first full strength of life will become simply a gruesome part of the debris of shattered buildings and fields.

And above all, war is wrong: in deed and in principle, it is an error before God and man.

The pacifists say with ineffectual emotionality: Peace must be preserved at any cost! One can only laugh caustically at such sentimental utterances, for how is peace to be preserved when the science of murder is aught on American campuses. A grim joke, indeed. Some day we may die over it, but not laughing.

STUDENTS TO TAKE TESTS

Aptitude tests for all students who expect to enter medical school in the fall of 1938 will be given December 3 at 3 p. m. in room 111, McVey hall. These tests will be given under the direction of the Association of American Medical colleges, and a fee of one dollar will be collected from each person taking them.

The Campus Gossip

By CHARLIE GARY

Reynolds Watkins, the laundry king, is the recipient of a new nickname. Just say to him "It's A Mug-kin", and watch him grow as red as Santa Clause's suit. Parked at the side of the Sigma Nu house is a very worn Essex which hasn't run since the reign of George Washington. People have often wondered why this conveyance, commonly known as "The Black Arrow", was allowed to stay there. Well, Reynolds answered that question much to our satisfaction when we saw him sitting in it with an attractive fresh gal. It was from this incident that "no tickie, no washee" Watkins gained the nickname of the popular song of a few seasons ago.

Virginia Richey, the dark haired beauty from Cleveland, was not contented Monday night until she made her date to the library, escorted her back to Patt hall via the way of the Kernel printing room. She just couldn't go to bed until she had told printer John Ed Pierce good-nite.

Everyone has seen the sign in the front yard of the Phi Delta house, announcing a bread line for KA's. But Scott Breckinridge states that when he went over to get his share of Vitamins ABC, the only bread he could find was ill bred.

The next time that Sigma Chi's Al Fulmer, Bob Rawlins, Bill Liles, Bill Killea, and Ray Fleming go on a trip they had better hire a guide. While on their way to Alabama they got lost and found themselves in the most deserted part of Georgia. Then on their way back, Bill Liles had to drive as the others went to sleep, and they awoke just in time to keep from crossing the Municipal Bridge from Louisville into Indiana.

Maestro Garth House made an extensive, and expensive trip to Chicago last week-end to see his favorite girl at Northwestern. Perhaps he doesn't know that the State of Kentucky is noted for beautiful women.

Virginia Hayden, "barb" of Patt Hall, received four telegrams and three Special Delivery letters last week from a certain Joe back in Somerset. Evidently, he doesn't trust "them college slickers."

The Sigma Chi financial committee felt sorry for Bob Singleton, Jim Whit, and Bill Adams, for their failure to get around this year, so they purchased them a "34" Ford Touring Sedan. Wednesday night, Adams complained because the gears wouldn't shift, as they were completely stripped. Such gratitude.

A certain Kentucky Wesleyan coed by the name of Zelia Mae Dugan, eagerly scans every copy of the Kernel in search of a certain News Editor's name. (Not Andrew Eckdahl) It seems as if Zelia Mae once ogled the non-named Kernelite when she lived in Bardstown and he in Louisville. We would like to take this opportunity to inform Zelia that he is happily pinned to the crotch of Alpha Zeta's Alice Wood Bailey. We would tell you the News Editor's name but he might get even next Tuesday.

SOCIAL NEWS OF SIGMA CHI—"Toar" Grady will depart this week-end for Florida to attend the Kentucky-Florida game in December. (Note: the six week probation list will be released Friday.)

Dave "Certy" Wilson celebrated Halloween by wrecking a Ford U Drive It Saturday night on his way back from the Country Club. Cost $62.78.

Frank Ellis, Robert Mills, Phil Jones, and "Big Gun Smoky" Taylor went to Morton's Gap for the week-end last Saturday. They evidently climbed over a great number of gaps as none of them was in school Monday. As a matter of fact, Jones, Mills, and "Big Gun Smoky" stayed in bed all day.

Jack Owen is very much that way about Jean Elliott but is having a very hard time because of the interference of his Phi Delta brothers, namely Joe Houlihan, and Wat Backer.

Pat Eddie, the former playboy of KMI, stated in a personal interview that he "just can't decide between Gerry Stapleton and Mary Lee Hope." We wonder what Ruth Ware will think of this.

An excerpt from the opinion book at Patt Hall: "We, the girls in room 4 and 11, say that Ray Lathrem is decidedly and emphatically a drip of the first degree." Oh well, what's their opinion against millions of others.

"Trust In Me" is the name of a song and it certainly fits Marian Mehler. She allows her roommate, Nancy Noble, to date her "one and only" while she goes to class and studies on certain nites.

From a rumor that drifted in, it seems as if Bob "Twenty Grand" Davis has a new and constant admirer of the name of Katherine Ackerman. She has been seen in the Commons and on the campus with him on numerous occasions and when Bob arrived at the train, Katherine was "Among those present."

Annual Kentucky Turkey Show To Begin Wednesday

Featuring talks, contests, and exhibits, the annual Kentucky turkey field meeting and show, sponsored by the University poultry club, will be held on the campus Wednesday and Thursday, November 10-11.

Opening the two-day meeting will be a talk by M. C. Small, editor of "Turkey World" at 11 a. m. Wednesday. Mr. Small will speak on "Increasing Turkey Profits Through Direct Marketing."

Other talks during the day will be made by H. H. Kauffman, Pennsylvania state college, and member of the University College of Agriculture staff. Mr. Kauffman will talk on "The Commercial Possibilities of a Smaller Turkey."

On Wednesday afternoon a demonstration of judging will be held under the direction of Mr. Small and Mr. Kauffman.

Exhibits of dressed turkeys will be on display at the judging pavilion during the show. Ribbons will be awarded in individual classes and trophies in the sweepstakes.

W.A.A. News

The mass meeting last night was very successful. It was very interesting to hear what W.A.A. is doing at other colleges. Anne Otter's report, about the Centre co-eds and what they are doing was interesting. We also enjoyed the reports of the girls who were members of Transylvania, and U of L last year. The ping pong tournament will start this week. Playing may be done either in the Women's gym, the Women's building or at Patterson hall. There will be a ten cent entry fee to cover the cost of the balls and for a small award which will be given to the winner. The tournament must be played off by the end of this month.

Next week is the last week of hockey before the tournament games. Practice is coming along fine and we have some very good players. Most of us have received bruises and such on our shins but then that only makes the game more exciting. The tournament games will start the week of November 15th. Every girl out for hockey must play in two games to receive her hockey points. This is a major sport and will give you 100 points.

There will be a W.A.A. council meeting in the Women's gym Tuesday night at 7:15. Final plans for our big dance, to be held November 13th, will be made. All council members must be present. Tickets for the dance are now available. They can be obtained from Miss Warren in her office at the Women's gym any day before 4 p. m. Friday November 12, the "Sport Queen," who will reign over the "University Swing Session," that is to be given by the U. K. Swimmers and the W. A. A. November 13th.

will be elected by a popular vote of the men students. Only men students who have bought tickets will be allowed to vote. The voting will take place in the Post Office at McVey hall. There will be one candidate from each sorority and one Independent on the slate.

Another feature of the dance, which is only costing $.75, will be a swing contest. A prize will be given to the winning couple. Jimmie Robertson and his Radio Artists will furnish the music for the evening. This swinggroup has played in Louisville for many of the U. of L. dances. The usual six no-breaks will be held. The dance will be formal for girls.

WOMEN'S DEANS TO MEET NOV. 5-6

Sixteenth Annual Meeting Of Kentucky Association Of Deans Of Women Meets At Eastern, November 5-6

Kentucky Association of Deans of Women will hold all day meetings in Richmond, Ky., November 5 and 6, at the Eastern State Teachers college. Emma Y. Case of Richmond, is president of the association, and will preside at its sixteenth annual meeting.

Friday there will be an assembly at which Dr. Esther Lloyd-Jones, of the guidance laboratory, Columbia Teachers college, New York City, will speak on "You and Your Lives." At luncheon, addresses will be given by Dr. Charles A. Keith, dean of men, Eastern State Teachers college; President Herman L. Donovan, also of Eastern; and Miss Sarah Sturtevant, professor of education and head of the department of student personnel at Columbia University. In the afternoon a program will be given by the men's glee club, under the direction of James E. Van Peursem.

Saturday morning Dr. Elizabeth Peck, Berea college, will give readings and comments on her own poems, and Thomas Stone, assistant professor of music at Eastern, will render several violin solos. Addresses will be given by Dr. William Van de Wall of the University of Kentucky and Miss Ethel Lovell, principal of Ahrens Trade School, Louisville. At luncheon there will be an address by Dr. W. F. King, executive secretary of the Kentucky Education Association, Louisville.

President and Mrs. Herman L. Donovan will be hosts to the association at ten Friday afternoon. A dinner will be given at Sullivan hall after which Doctor Lloyd-Jones will speak.

Dr. Eddy To Speak At Youth Meeting

Dr. Sherwood Eddy, author of twenty volumes on international economic, social and religious questions, will speak at a youth meeting at Maxwell Street Presbyterian Church at 6:30 p. m., Sunday, November 21.

On Dr. Eddy's last visit to Russia, with his group of writers and speakers, he endeavored to study the situation in government, industry and collective agriculture. He has just returned from making a fresh study of the situation in Europe.

Sesqui-Centennial Pre-Christmas Services

The general program of the Sesqui-Centennial celebrating the confederation signing of the Constitution has been told in the columns of The Kernel. From time to time specific undertakings and programs will be called to the attention of the student body.

Professor Van de Wall has been requested to have charge of the matter of presenting colonial music and he is asking for the cooperation of every one of us. It seems to me that nothing can be much more fascinating than to investigate the accomplishments of our ancestors with reference to their music and drama and their art, generally. The dramatic and other artistic features of colonial life will be presented subsequently.

Professor Van de Wall is investigating the sources of our early colonial music and the English background of it. It will be a great educational achievement for us to become familiar with this phase of early American life. If this is presented in a program of pre-Christmas music, choruses ought to be ready to perform some time before Christmas and it is none too soon for us to begin at once. I hope all who possibly can will take an active part in the effort.

Seeing the University Man

With ROBERT S. COHEN

A most predominating article of attire is the shirt.

For the man who sticks to the attached collar style, R. S. Thorpe & Sons are displaying the Round-Neck collar, a new round tabless tab.

The Surrey, an authentic English collar shirt, is also well recommended. Both shirts have french cuffs and are obtainable in all of the new stripe patterns.

A hat most suitable to wear to class is the new Dobb's two-ounce model featured by Graves & Cox, which won't get out of shape regardless of how much it is crushed. The "Pork-Pie" pictureless tab.

For those needed pajamas see Kaufman's new line.

The lounge style is being featured in the more popular fancy patterns. This year's mode is shown in a new fabric "Fabrique

If you're the type who relishes stiff collars— you need go no farther. Angelucci & Ringo bring to you a most interesting array of detachable collar shirts.

Today's newest are the pleated front style in the smart dusk tones, and the demi-bosom, which may be secured in all of the new color combinations.

Concerning the sizes — shirts mentioned in this column may be had in all sizes.

Baynam's, this week, are showing the Cordovan shoe, all styles of which are receiving a remarkable revival of popularity. One of the most popular patterns is the full wing tip English style brogue—built over a full toe custom last particularly designed for wing tip styles. This shoe is carried in all over genuine shell Cordovan in a rich brown mahogany shade.

Satinelle and also there are the broadcloths and the madras. An extra button is noted this year. The use is to supply the "Surplus neck" for cold nights.

In the higher priced line we have the "Peachskin" pajama, a pure dye fabric, warranted not to slip. You have a choice of ten colors.

Shop Sights

By MARJORIE RIESER

Up to now there has been so much discussion over sweaters, skirts and sport clothes in general one is almost led to believe that there isn't a silk dress in captivity. But with Thanksgiving less than a month away and the Christmas holidays coming soon after maybe we should glance at the familiar Japanese import. And, although we still advocate wool, there are some campus activities where a silk dress is usable. Mrs. McVey's Wednesday teas rank tops.

Denton's Cartwright dresses range from size 9 to 17. One 13 named "First Prize" comes in either royal blue or light hunter's green. It's elbow length sleeves are piped in gold kid along with the collarless neck. Small covered buttons from the waist upward are stopped at each end by a gold kid bow 10 inches in length. The skirt is full.

Another called "Three Cheers" in goalpost brown, which is similar to a deep chocolate, is shirtwaist style with six thin bands of rust, white and green braid on the circular skirt and on the cuffs of the long tight sleeved dress. A row of buttons up the front leads to a white pique collar and a cluster of yarn flowers.

A third answers to "Play Day" and is solid black with white French lace about three quarters of an inch wide circling the neck and continuing to a gold kid bow 10 inches in length. A row of buttons up the front leads to a white pique collar and a cluster of yarn flowers.

A good example of one is black with a short coat that is bordered with black sequins. The dress itself has a short komona sleeve, flared skirt and a subdued green sash that flows to the hem.

A second one has a two piece effect, cowl neck, short, puffed sleeves, straight skirt with no flare or pleat and on the wide band forming the bottom of the blouse blue dusters cut of sponges. Incidentally the dress is black.

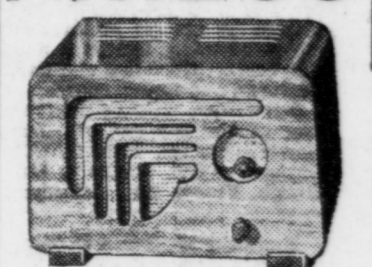

The Pin Money department on the third floor at B. B. Smith and Co., also have a wide selection of these holiday duds. One has an alpaca skirt which is very much like a sheer wool georgette, marquette with long sleeves and two rimestone clips at the "V" neck.

Another black is crepe with a full skirt, short sheer sleeves, wide belt with a bold gold leaf design in front and again at the twisted material forming the neck.

When thinking of hats one just naturally turns to Meyer and Hinkle because their variety is really the spice of all headgears. Such things as black velvet turbans with an ostrich plume over the right side and a veil down the back, a pill box black velvet with dark blue and black feathers in the front, a tall stitched felt that closely resembles an inverted water pail with a rhinestone clip on the front side, high crown velvet turbans with sequins or metal trim with a veil all around.

And at the mention of shoes the Byckley modes shown at Wolf-Wiles are considered first by many. This is easily seen in the softie which is a black suede pump with a perforated toe or the cross strap sandal which is really just like the "X" strap of last spring or the dressy oxford with six eyelets high over the instep and a patent leather heel.

By GEORGE H. KERLER

YOUR undomesticated football felines will square off with eleven fowls, generally known as the South Carolina Gamecocks, tomorrow over yonder on the Stoll block garden where Kentucky will attempt to run its string of victories on the Rose and Euclid acreage to three straight. 'Way back in September, when Alabama was just another tough team Kentucky would have to knock apart, South Carolina seemed like a scheduled guarantee of triumph. But now, with the gents from the land of Calhoun recognized as a hot-today cold-tomorrow bunch and with the Wildcats decidedly put in place by the Crimson flood, the Gamecocks loom as a flock capable of doing a competent job of taxidermy on the Wildcats.

The invaders are hosts to one of the longest schedules in the nation. They debuted September 18 and will curtain December 3, a span including 12 games which is something you and I might label, a lengthy pigskin docket.

Coming from the foremost sessionistic state the South Carolinas have inherited the will to secede from the form sheet. They rapped Emory & Henry in their opener and then for no good reason tied North Carolina which since then has beaten N. Y. U. and Tulane. The Gamecocks third fight came with Georgia who managed to down them and next came Alabama who feathered them, 20-0, just 21 points less than the Tide washed us. Picking up their marbles bewilderedly, the Columbians trounced Davidson in the following bout; were roasted by Clemson, 34-6, in the big state fair game; and then thumped The Citadel by two touchdowns last week.

Certainly, South Carolina's 1937 gridiron past is nothing Rosebowl but it evidences that they have the habit of strutting into games with the will to upset. If they're hot tomorrow there will be no stopping them. Because they have not jolted a formidable opponent since the North Carolina shocker, the barnyard big-shots are aiming to keep the 'Cats seated firmly on the defeat toboggan.

Reverting to the happy W & L and Manhattan afternoons, Kentucky appears to be a team of the hot-cold variety. Should both squads tomorrow be anything near warm the scrap ought to be hard on the spectators' voice boxes. But despite the comparative temperatures of the teams, Saturday's tussle is a natural. The squads unimpressive records, yet there Saturday's tussle is a natural. The squads have unimpressive records, yet there lurks the element of strength and surprise within both clubs. A victory for either team will shove it back onto Prosperity Pike. Most of all, it's a game Kentucky definitely needs.

In fact, to be dramatic about it, this is a Kentucky must game. We must win. To lose to a sentiment-loaded rival like Alabama by 41 points does something to a team's smile muscles. It's tough to come back home thoroughly licked. The hopes have been crushed and the folks are critical. If you took a few minutes off one of these post-Alabama afternoons and watched the 'Cats practice, you contracted the idea that Kentucky was starting all over again. The flag that flew so loftily after the Manhattan battle was shot down and trampled by the Red Elephants. And now, with six games behind them, the Wynnemen are forced to feed their spirit some pep vitamins. Nothing will reestablish their faith as much as a clean win over South Carolina. If the scoreboard goes against Kentucky tomorrow, you may regard the remainder of the season with uneasiness.

Speaking of watching the Kentuckys practice recalls the faithful handful that always turns out after the Wildcats lose a game. Whenever they win the crowd that populates the fence is overflowing. Just let the team lose and the spectators have more important things to do than scouting the team for their own edification. More important things like decorating sorority sofas or drooling over Bertha.

Yet on Saturday these same scapegraces, who condemn the squad over soft drinks, make less inspirational noise at the game than do the four faithful scribes who observe Wildcatism from the press box. Often wonder how the footballers feel when not even the student body has a friendly word for them when they lose nor even a spirited cheer for them at the game. Put yourself in their place. You wouldn't like it.

Carolina's coach, Don McCallister, brings a troop of veterans to Lexington. However, it's not a great team and it hasn't done anything monumental this year. They have two backfield threats in Bob Snider and Ed Clary. Somebody has brightened Snider's name with such adjective flourishes as All-American and "one of the best backs in the South." Clary is a member of South Carolina's famous athletic family. He is the third brother to shine on the Gamecocks' football team. Their reserves are three deep and they can be pestiferous.

Many of the Carolina players hail from Ohio. McCallister used to coach at Toledo high school and lots of his secondary school boys followed him to Columbia.

There is little reason why Kentucky should lose this game tomorrow. Bob Davis and Hodge have taken it easy this week and are about back in harness. Red Simpson is due to turn in a praiseable game and thus make his coach a happy man. Dameron Davis ought break loose somewhere along here. The whole team is bound to click gratifyingly.

Prognostication hit a new low last week. Only 13 out of 23 which is bush league picking. There was one glittering error last Friday. But somebody mixed up the names and got the numbers reversed. Anyway, hold your breath.

Rupps Begin Net Preps; Strong Foes Scheduled

By YAG N. NIVRAM

Under the skillful tutelage of Coach Adolph Rupps, the Wildcats began hard work Monday afternoon to prepare themselves to fight in defense of the Southeastern Conference basketball crown, which they captured last season by triumphing in the annual tournament at Knoxville.

From the amount of pep, vim, and vigor displayed by the "champs" as they went determinedly about their work, prospects for another title must be considered bright despite the loss of several key men from last season's five. Ralph "Mighty" Carlisle, forward, and Capt. Warfield Donohue, guard, both all tournament selections, were lost by graduation in addition to Goforth, guard, and McIntosh, center.

Despite the fact that the 'Cat schedule contains many of the nation's crack outfits, genial Coach Rupps is confident that his boys will make a commendable fight in defense of their "Big 13" crown, and will finish high among the country's ranking teams.

Highlight of a season studded with brilliant and important games is the contest between the 'Cats and Pittsburgh's Panthers, December 29, in the annual Sugar Bowl battle at New Orleans. According to Mentor Rupps the Wildcats' chances of winning this tilt have been greatly lessened as five lettermen, Hodge, Davis, Ellington, Curtis, and Hagan, will be unable to report until December 4, when the football season ends. In addition Spears, a promising center from last fall's star freshman aggregation, will report with these lettermen.

Coach Rupps has his heart set on winning this Sugar Bowl conflict, as no Southern quietest has ever been able to squeeze through with a victory. And, when the former Kansan makes up his mind to win a contest, the 'Cats generally come through. During his triumphal seasons at Kentucky, Rupps' Blue and White teams have won 122 games, and lost 21, and in addition have finished first in the conference six times and have won two tournament championships.

Several years ago Pittsburgh's Panthers unwisely ventured to meet Kentucky in the Wildcat lair, and they received the thumping of their lives. Kentucky led the famed Pitt five, Eastern Intercollegiate Champs that season, 22 to 2 at the half. (P. S. The Mighty Panthers did slightly better during the final period and somehow managed to make five or six goals.)

Other highlights of the 1937-38 season are tilts with Notre Dame, Creighton, Marquette, Michigan State, Alabama, and Tennessee.

Lettermen now fighting fiercely for starting positions are Captain Walker and Thompson centers; Head and Tie, forwards; and Opp, guard. These men will be hard pressed by several brilliant sophomores including Clugish, 6 foot 8 inch center; Goodman and Denham, forwards; and Rouse, guard.

Other men battling for recognition in the Wildcat net firm are Harris Walker, Harris, Combs, Boyle, Trivette, Bertram, Hatcher, Gough, Frezza, and Heineman.

CAN PEOPLE REALLY TELL THE DIFFERENCE IN CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS?
The Best Answer is This...
Camels are the Largest-Selling cigarette in America

Year in and year out, Camel pays millions more for finer tobaccos. And smokers do appreciate the added pleasure this means to them!

CAMEL'S use of choicer, costlier tobaccos has been the subject of much discussion. The question has often been raised as to whether or not people could tell the difference.

The way smokers feel gives the answer! Camels are the largest-selling cigarette in America, and the world. If you are not a Camel smoker, perhaps you, too, would enjoy a cigarette with a richer, cooler taste. Turn, then, to Camels. Put them to the severest test—smoke them steadily. You'll realize how true it is that there is no substitute for costlier tobaccos.
